With a view to encourage students in developing interviewing, planning, and analytical skills in the lawyer-client relationship in the law office, The NCU Law School organized a National Client Consultation Competition on October 30, 2015. Premier Law Schools from different parts of the country participated in the competition. To name a few, National Law Institute University, Bhopal, National Institute of Law, Indore, School of Law, Christ University, Bangalore and University of Petroleum and Energy Studies, Dehradun etc. were among others. The Competition simulated a law office consultation in which two law students, acting as lawyers (attorneys/solicitors/legal practitioners), were presented with a client matter. The participants conducted an interview with a person playing the role of the client, based on which they were evaluated. The interview with the client was then followed by a post-consultation period during which the students, in the absence of the client, analysed the interview and discussed the legal and other work to be undertaken. The competition comprised of four rounds and the Amity Law School, Delhi emerged as the winner, whereas the School of Law, Christ University, Bangalore became the runner-up.
