"You can only learn law by doing and while doing, you also contribute to social justice" – this is the essence of legal education, according to Prof. Ajay Pandey, Executive Director, Clinical Programmes, O.P. Jindal Global Law School. There is a huge disconnect between what the law promises and what it delvers. To do away with this disconnect, we need to work with real clients – associate ourselves with the real clients around us. These were some of the aspects which Prof. Pandey touched upon while delivering a special lecture on 'Importance of Clinical Legal Education' on January 19, 2012. His lecture was followed by an interaction session with the students, where he replied to various queries including opportunities to work along with him through joint collaboration with Jindal Global Law School. He was very optimistic regarding such endeavours.
