Q11. Are there any foreign language courses or certifications available at NCU?

Yes, The NorthCap University offers Foreign Language Electives (FLE) across all departments except the School of Law. Students can choose from a range of languages, including French, German, Spanish, and Mandarin. These electives are designed to enhance global competence and add value to students' academic and professional profiles.

Q12. Can students switch specialisations (e.g., from core CSE to AI/ML) after admission or in the first year?

At The NorthCap University, students applying to all programmes can indicate their preferred specialisation (if any) in the application form at the time of admission.

For BTech programmes, the first year is common for all Computer Science specialisations. Students are required to finalise their specialisation—such as AI/ML, Data Science, Cyber Security, etc.—at the end of the second semester, based on academic performance and seat availability. A change of specialisation within the same branch is permitted at this stage.

Q13. What documents are mandatory at the time of admission, and what if some results are delayed?

The list of mandatory documents required at the time of admission varies depending on the programme you are applying for. We recommend referring to the specific Admission Policy relevant to your school:

Admission Policy School of Engineering and Technology - Click Here

Admission Policy School of Management & Liberal Studies - Click Here

Admission Policy School of Law - Click Here

You can also visit our official website at ncuindia.edu for complete details.

Q14. What are the newest programmes launched at The NorthCap University?

At The NorthCap University, we continuously update our academic offerings to align with emerging industry trends and global standards.

For the Academic Year 2025-26, the following new programmes and tracks are planned:

- BTech in Electronics and Communication Engineering (ECE) with a specialisation in Semiconductor Design and Technology, launched in collaboration with IIT Mandi and the National Skill Development Corporation (NSDC).
- An 18-credit track in Quantum Computing under BTech Computer Science and Engineering (CSE), developed in accordance with the AICTE Model Curriculum.

In the Academic Year 2024-25, the university introduced the following programmes:

- Bachelor of Commerce (BCom) with ACCA Certification
- Master of Arts (MA) in English
- Master of Arts (MA) in Psychology

These programmes are designed to equip students with advanced knowledge and industry-relevant skills for future-ready careers.

Q15. Is there any other fee?

There is no other fee/fund payable. However, at the time of admission the student is required to deposit an interest free refundable security deposit of Rs. 10,000, Alumni Association Fee of Rs. 1,000 and Industry Employability Aptitude Test fee (applicable for BTech & School of Management programs only) of Rs. 1,500 is payable. Q34. What kind of support is available for students transitioning from school to college life?

NCU conducts “Deeksharambh” – a comprehensive Orientation and Student Induction Programme (SIP) to welcome and guide new students. It includes campus tours, academic briefings, and interactive sessions with faculty and peers.

Students participate in masterclasses, communication workshops, and club showcases to ease into college life. Peer mentoring, industry visits, and cultural evenings help them feel confident and connected. The entire experience is thoughtfully crafted to foster confidence, connection, and a strong sense of belonging from day one.

Q35. How hands-on are the academic programmes? Are there opportunities for live projects, industry internships, or labs?

NCU offers a highly practical and project-oriented learning experience across all disciplines. Students benefit from immersive labs and Centres of Excellence, such as the Cyber Security Lab with Grant Thornton, Machine Learning Lab, Game Development Lab, and NavIC Lab with ISRO.

Real-world exposure is ensured through internships, live industry projects, and collaborative research. Smart classrooms, AR/VR labs, and an Innovation & Incubation Centre enhance tech-enabled learning. These facilities prepare students to confidently solve real-world challenges from day one.

Q36. How strong is the alumni network? Do they engage in mentorship or placement assistance?

NCU takes pride in its dynamic alumni network of over 13,000 graduates, many of whom now hold leadership roles in top global organisations. Through the Centre for Professional Attachment & Alumni Engagement (CPAA), this network stays closely connected with the university.

Alumni frequently conduct mentorship sessions, career talks, and industry guidance webinars, even from locations like the US, Australia, Europe, Canada and more. It's not uncommon for current students to land roles in companies where NCU alumni already play key decision-making roles.

From annual reunions to active online engagements, the NCU alumni community is a powerful pillar of support for every student.

Q37. Are classes mostly theoretical or do they include case studies, simulations, and real-world exposure?

At NCU, learning is highly experiential, blending theory with case writing and analysis workshops, simulations, capstone projects, and industry visits. Students engage in moot court competitions, NGO fieldwork, lab-based explorations, and hands-on activities at Centres of Excellence.

Exposure to national-level competitions, conferences, research projects, and paper presentations further sharpens practical understanding. Regular masterclasses by industry experts and real-world problem-solving tasks ensure classroom learning is directly linked to future careers. The goal is clear: to prepare students not just to know – but to do.

Q39. What kind of parent-student-university interaction or updates are shared regularly?

NCU ensures transparency by sharing ERF login credentials with parents, allowing them to monitor attendance, timetables, and academic updates. Regular Parent-Teacher Meetings (PTMs) are held to discuss progress and feedback. This system keeps parents informed and actively involved in their child's journey at NCU.
